

Unit 10 – Reflection:

This week was quite challenging for me in terms of my studies. I found myself in a bit of a time crunch due to being behind on my statistical exercises and needing to prepare for my research proposal presentation. This situation left me feeling overwhelmed. Working on my presentation took up a significant amount of time, as I encountered difficulties in ensuring that my video did not exceed fifteen minutes, which would disrupt the presentation's transcript. Despite these challenges, I was able to create a well-structured presentation. Additionally, working on my statistical exercises allowed me to reacquaint myself with some Excel formulas that I hadn't used in a while. Now, I feel fully prepared to submit my assignment, and I am hopeful I will receive a great grade, as I believe I have met all the requirements and expectations.